RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

PORTFOLIO ADVISOR'S REPORT

The Fund returned 11.58% in 2016 (Series F), a year in which high yield returns were robust. This compared with high yield ETF returns that ranged from 13.8% (XHY – iShares U.S. ETF hedged to Canadian dollars), 13.4% (iShares – HYG) and 14.4% (SPDR Barclays – JNK). While this was the first calendar year in which the Fund broadly underperformed the high yield ETFs during this manager's tenure it can be explained by the fund's underweight position in energy and commodity-related sectors that have had a high degree of volatility. The Fund has historically outperformed or equaled the performance of high yield debt ETFs in all of its previous calendar years during the manager's tenure.

In the post-U.S. election investment world we believe one of the most important investment themes has been the rapid rise in longer term interest rates not just in the U.S. but globally. The Fund is positioned for rising rates with an underweight position in interest-sensitive BB-rated bonds and targeted investments in industries that should benefit from deregulation and infrastructure spending including financial services, engineering & construction.

Since the upset election result in the U.S. long-term interest rates have marched higher with the U.S. 10-year yield reaching its highest level since early-2014, to 2.60% up from a low of 1.36%, and settling back down in the 2.3% area. Our sense is that this is finally the longer term bottoming for bond yields that has been anticipated every year since after the Credit Crisis. Our rationale is that inflation measures are up off the bottom including U.S. PPI, CPI and wage inflation, as well as the inflation rate discounted in inflation-protected bonds. The U.S. economy appears to be at full employment which will likely result in further wage inflation. At the same time there appears to be a sea change in the global preponderance toward fiscal spending and budget deficits (the opposite of austerity) because when interest rates are close to zero it makes sense for governments to borrow. While we are not making a short-term call on long term interest rates we believe that the coming 12-24 month period will mark the end of the secular bull market in long bonds that has been in place since the 1980s.

With rates rising we see opportunity in the high yield debt market overall, because if long-term rates are rising it usually means that corporate credit quality is improving. In historical instances of the U.S. 10-year government yield rising more than 1% the high yield bond market has outperformed investment-grade corporate debt more than 90% of the time.

With respect to corporate credit quality, in the post-election world there has been an uptick in U.S. economic growth expectations which is a positive. Leading indicators such as consumer sentiment (U. of Michigan survey), small business sentiment (NFIB survey) and overall employment have been strong. Purchase mortgage applications, a leading indicator for the housing, repair and renovation sectors, continue to be robust even as 30-year mortgage rates have increased slightly. The rate at which high yield bond issuers default has recently been 3.6% (source: JP Morgan) which is in line with historical averages compared with default rates during an expansionary periods. Excluding energy and metals/mining (coal) defaults however, the overall default rate is 80 basis points. During recessions, default rates can be as high as 10% to the low-teens which was the case in 2000 and post-Credit Crisis. While the current economic expansion has been longer than average do not foresee a recession on the horizon for the next 24 months at least, which is favorable for returns on corporate debt.

MANAGEMENT FEES

LOGIQ Asset Management Ltd. is the Manager of the Fund. Pursuant to the management agreement between the Fund and the Manager, the Manager is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Fund, and in return, the Fund pays the Manager management fees. Series A/TA6, Series F/TF6 and Series Y of the Fund pay management fees of up to 2.0%, 1.0% and 1.5%, respectively, to the Manager for providing general management and administrative services.

Out of the management fees, the Manager is required to pay financial advisors a service fee for ongoing services they provide to investors. The service fee is calculated monthly and payable monthly, based on the total client assets invested in Series A/TA6 shares of the Fund held by each financial advisor's clients throughout the month. The Manager may change or cancel service fees at any time. There are no service fees on Series F/TF6 shares of the Fund.

No management fees are charged for Series I shares. Instead, each investor negotiates a separate fee, which is payable directly to the Manager.

⁽²⁾ MER is based on the requirements of NI 81-106 and includes the total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) of the Fund for the stated period, including interest expense and issuance costs, if applicable, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the average Net Asset Value of the period. Please see the "Expense Ratio" section following this table for further discussion of the calculation.

⁽⁵⁾ The Fund adopted International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") commencing January 1, 2014. Information for periods prior to January 1, 2013 continues to be reported under Canadian GAAP.

⁽⁶⁾ Information needed to calculate the base management expense ratio prior to 2013 is not available.
