Investment Manager Commentary (February 2017)

Manitou was appointed subadvisor to the VIP funds in May of 2016. In our first commentary, the Semi-Annual Report, we highlighted Manitou’s core approach and how that was being applied to this income focused mandate. As a firm, we focus on total return and use concentrated, well researched, portfolios to achieve our return objectives. Our investee companies must meet stringent quality requirements where sustainability, and growth, of cash flow is paramount. Thus, the vast majority of names we investment in have significant and growing dividends and are well suited for an income mandate. We have managed the fund with a balance of cash, bonds and equities with sufficient cash to support the distribution, a limited number of bonds given the rate environment, and a diversified collection of equity positions in quality operators. Leaning on our equity positions, we will work to grow the capital base while using a buffer of cash and bonds to maintain the distribution. The certainly of capital preservation is critical while we strive to grow the capital base.

Our most significant move during the year was predicated on preserving capital. Given the ultra low rate environment, the income from quality bonds is generally not sufficient to meet inflation. In this environment, high yield equities, such as REITS (Real Estate Investment Trusts) and utilities, have become the bond substitute. Our concern, mid-year, was that the market would start pricing in higher rates as positive economic data was causing the U.S. Federal Reserve to signal a rate hike was likely coming before the end of the year. The prospect of higher yields on bonds implied high yield equity could be revalued downward and we sold out of several utility, pipeline and REIT positions such as Algonquin Power and Utilities Corp, Enbridge Inc and Slate Retail REIT. We replaced these positions with companies that we believe have solid prospects for capital appreciation as well as a decent yield including Great West Lifeco Inc., CME Group Inc., Enghouse Systems Limited and Constellation Software Inc. In hind sight, this was a reasonable move as both the Utilities sector and the newly formed Real Estate sector posted negative returns in the fourth quarter of 2016. We also added Constellation Software bonds which have an attractive yield and the coupon is inflation adjusted.

As we start 2017, we expect speculation on inflation and interest rate moves to continue to be a critical driver of market performance. We will continue to focus our research on finding individual companies that can grow their core business and generate enough cash flow to exceed their re-investment needs and pay the excess as a sustainable and growing dividend stream. We will stay sensitive to the environment in which these companies operate as well as review our allocation between cash, bonds and equities. We believe the business climate will be stable to improving, rate hikes will be gradual and equities will be the most suitable asset class to generate total returns. Thus, we will maintain the portfolio with a heavy tilt toward equity and will maintain a suitable cash buffer.
